WERE YOU ABLE TO ANSWER THE FIRST 6 QUESTIONS?

If so, your level is most likely to be A1

So, what does that mean?

It means that, for the time being, you're a beginner.

You are probably able to interact around...

- Basic phrases and questions about yourself when people speak slowly and clearly
- Simple numbers and time information
- Simple words about your family, and anything very familiar to your everyday environment (weather, food, pet)

To progress, we suggest that you...

- Build your vocabulary up, per theme or topic
- Practise speaking for very short but regular period of times
- Master questions words (qui, quand, comment...)
- Watch short videos to immerse yourself in the language on a regular basis, regardless of whether you understand fully what's going on, or not!
- Focus on the present tense for now with simple action verbs (manger, jouer, voyager)

WERE YOU ABLE TO ANSWER MOST OF THE FIRST 16 QUESTIONS?

If so, your level is most likely to be a lower A2

So, what does that mean?

It means that you can master language basics

You are probably able to interact around...

- Simple phrases, questions and information asked and given on personal needs and interests
- Familiar topic of conversation; you can take part in a simple conversation when people speak slowly and clearly
- Simple directions

To progress, we suggest that you...

- Start reading short and simple text about topics of interest
- Create your own vocabulary booklet using any "routine words, verbs and expressions"
- Listen to audio recording lasting more than 5 minutes and ensure you understand them fully (or nearly!)
- Study the past and future tense
- Ensure that you can master the auxiliary verbs: être et avoir in the present tense and, to go and to do (aller et faire).

WERE YOU ABLE TO ANSWER MOST OF THE FIRST 21 QUESTIONS?

If so, your level is most likely to be a strong A2

So, what does that mean?

It means you have strong basics and can be considered at a pre-intermediate level

You are probably able to interact around...

- Instructions and descriptions related to travel/work/family events if they are supported by practical demonstration
- The main topics of TV news items/reporting events if there are accompanying pictures
- Various events (from a familiar source or environment) spoken about in the present, past and future using mainly regular verbs
- A variety of vocabulary related to familiar topics

To progress, we suggest that you...

- Start practising French at least twice a week, in a structured way and immerse yourself in the language as much as possible (tv series, podcasts, bilingual magazines)
- Check out more varied and complex vocabulary linked to your favourite topics/themed and start practising them in simple sentences
- Grammar may need to be a regular part of your learning routine! Start looking into pronouns.

WERE YOU ABLE TO ANSWER ALMOST ALL THE QUESTIONS?

If so, your level is most likely to be B1 or even maybe a lower B2

So, what does that mean?

It means you are at an intermediate level or even perhaps reaching an advanced level

You are probably able to interact around...

- ☞ Straightforward and complex information about everyday routine, travel experiences, work related topics and identify both general meaning and specific details if the speech is relatively clear
- ☞ The main elements of radio and TV/internet news bulletins and explain clearly what is being said/happening
- ☞ Detailed directions and instructions
- ☞ The meaning of unknown words from a familiar context
- ☞ General and specific information from routine telephone calls

To progress, we suggest that you...

- ☞ Practise real-life conversations by speaking with native French people
- ☞ Watch TV shows and movies in French, without subtitles
- ☞ Read French novels (ideally novels you may have read in English before, so you are familiar with the story)
- ☞ Study more complex tenses and grammar rules

We hope this helps.

If you're excited about reaching the next level up and finding out how you can do so, given your current level, your objectives, your availability, and budget, please know that our team can help you with 3 different options:

You can ask to receive a booklet from the European Framework for Languages that will show you concretely what language learners do to reach various language levels, looking at all communication skills: speaking (spoken production and interaction), listening, reading, and writing.

You can book a free 30-minute discovery call with one of our language experts – please email learn@thevici.com – we can organise something for you at our language academy in the Newbury town centre or online, using our language learning platform, i.VICI.

 YouTube The VICI Language Academy

You can choose to enrol in one of our group or 1-1 language programmes (we have a choice of 11 different foreign languages) and ask FOR YOUR £50 DISCOUNT VOUCHER (quoting TFFB21)
